

Fighting Bob Fest

For release: August 17, 2009
Contact: Ed Garvey, (608) 256-3191

10,000 will raise hell for health care in Wisconsin

Former health insurance insider Wendell Potter will join a host of health care reform speakers, writers and public officials at Fighting Bob Fest VIII in Baraboo, Wisconsin, on September 12.

Fighting Bob Fest is the largest annual outdoor political festival in the United States, drawing participants from throughout the nation and all over the world. Recent Bob Fests have drawn more than 10,000 attendees.

“People come to Fighting Bob Fest to have fun and to be part of something special,” said Bob Fest founder and master of ceremonies Ed Garvey. “And they also want to leave with a better sense of what they can do to make things better. This year, they will leave knowing what they can do about health care reform.”

In addition to a host of A-list speakers, Bob Fest includes music, food, beer, poetry, small-group workshops, exhibits and unencumbered conversation.

Speakers at this year’s Fighting Bob Fest include U.S. Senators Tom Harkin and Bernie Sanders, Congresswomen Gwen Moore and Tammy Baldwin, and bestselling authors Jeremy Scahill, Jim Hightower and Greg Palast.

For more information go to FightingBobFest.org, or go to FightingBob.com and click on the Fighting Bob Fest icon.

What: Fighting Bob Fest
When: September 12, 2009 – 8:30 a.m. – 5:30 p.m.
Where: Sauk County Fairgrounds, Baraboo, Wisconsin

-END-